iAccelerator Program 2011

IIMA, August 3, 2011: IIMA's Center for Innovation, Incubation and Entrepreneurship invites participation from tech entrepreneurship with the launch of its unique incubator program called iAccelerator 2011.

The program has been providing funding and mentoring support to tech start-ups for the past two years. The 2011 batch will feature 15 carefully selected start-ups that will be put through a 3-month rigorous bootcamp at the IIMA campus. During those three months, companies will receive hands-on technology and business help to build and sell their products. This year, there is a 5 lacs seed funding, personal one-on-one mentorship from industry experts, and visits by prominent business leaders and entrepreneurs in the country. Most importantly, the finalist companies will be able to tap into the vast partner network of IIMA and CIIE for continued funding of their businesses.

The iAccelerator program will accept applications till 15 August 2011 for its 2011 batch.
