Professor Ajeet N. Mathur
Faculty Chair, International Business

September 24, 2019

Dear Sir/Madam,

This is to announce our Executive Education Programme 'International Business' from August 27 to 29, 2020.

By studying how companies succeed and why they fail when they do business abroad, participants will be able to connect practices with concepts at the cutting edge of knowing what works.

We invite participation from leaders, managers, entrepreneurs, policymakers involved with responsibilities for international business or those likely to be involved. The previous programme drew participation from CEOs, Directors, Presidents, Vice-Presidents, General Managers and Profit Centre Heads.

This course is designed on the basis of knowledge available from research and practices all over the world, including research by IIMA. We will provide a platform to reflect upon new directions, creative actions, difficult choices, sustainable strategies, modalities of organising and managing intellectual capital and organisational knowledge.

The course will offer frameworks and insights for examining and understanding the complex nature of the challenges in the context of WTO, TRIPS, and GATS, overcoming the liabilities of foreignness and outsidership. We shall also cover the range of choices for managing institutional and cultural diversity in foreign commercial presence and coping with various kinds of risks, including country risk and political risk.

More details are available from the enclosed brochure. You can avail the fee benefits of multiple nominations as mentioned in the brochure. Do let us know if you need more nomination forms. Alternatively, photocopies of the form enclosed can be used. The last date for receiving completed nomination forms is July 24, 2020 and last date to avail early bird discount is January 24, 2020.

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

August 27 to 29, 2020

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

August 27 to 29, 2020

The fiercely competitive business environment makes incessant demands for connecting with new sources of value. Competing and collaborating can both involve arenas of action beyond national borders. By studying how businesses succeed and why they fail when they do business abroad, participants in this programme will be able to connect practices with concepts at the cutting edge of knowing what works.

What will be learnt?

The programme will draw on the cutting edge of insights from business practices, international business strategy research, case studies of experiences of exporters, investors, collaborators in joint ventures and business partners pursuing opportunities in cross-border value chains, value-grids and constellations. There will also be identification and discussion of implications for organisation structures, institutionalised systems and management processes that arise from responses to governance frames, competitiveness and international economic relations.

Pedagogy and Faculty

We will learn from case studies, exercises and insights introduced into the programme sessions by IIMA faculty members and leading practitioners doing business abroad who have insights to share from their research and practice. Participants will have opportunities to draw on their own experiences, reflect on them and bring issues and challenges to work on them.

For Whom

This programme would be useful for CEOs, Directors, Presidents, Vice-Presidents, General Managers, and Profit Centre Heads with responsibilities for decisions concerning international business; government officials concerned with trade or trade-substituting investment policies for foreign direct investments, and policymakers concerned with internationally leveraging intellectual property rights and organisational knowledge using enabling provisions in multilateral fora such as WTO, TRIPS, GATS, besides plurilateral arrangements and bilateral agreements.

This programme is designed to provide an opportunity to expand your understanding of choices for strategies and organisation of international business, particularly various forms of foreign commercial presence, movement of natural persons and product-services linkages. It recognises that developing capabilities for doing business abroad requires particular attention to managing institutional and cultural diversity, and understanding and preparing for various kinds of risks including country risk and political risk.
