Advanced Human Resource Management

December 3-8, 2018

Introduction

Effective management of Human Resource (HR) is considered a distinguishing characteristic of successful organisations. In such organisations, the HR function has moved beyond its traditional role to occupy a strategic position. HR fulfills its new role by actively focusing itself in the organisation's direction. Value adding and innovative HR practices for building competencies and developing high commitment are found in these organisations. HR is accountable for tangible results both qualitatively and quantitatively. This approach ensures that the human capital is a source of sustainable competitive advantage.

We have been offering the programme on HRM for the last 17 years with good response from organisations in and outside India. The programme is specifically designed to examine the changing role of the HR function in the present environment and expose the participants to current practices and research in the HRM domain. The role of line managers in HRM is specifically emphasised in the programme. The programme will also be an opportunity for the participants to reinforce their understanding of HRM and explore ways of designing and implementing value adding HR interventions in their organisations.

Programme Highlights

- Strategic Context of HRM
- Pay for Performance and Knowledge
- Line Managers and HRM
- Employee Development
- Cultural Infrastructure of Organisations
- Career Management
- Competency Modeling
- Employment Relations
- Employee Sourcing and Socialisation
- Human Resource Information Systems
- Performance Management
- HR Outsourcing

Participant's Profile

Senior and middle managers and executives with more than three years of experience in the HR function will find this programme useful. Managers planning a career shift to HR roles or positions involving substantial people management responsibilities will also find this programme a rich learning experience. Line managers with five years of experience responsible for people management in their roles are also welcome.

The participants can represent corporate as well as non-corporate sectors including government and NGOs.
